This course will explore the ways in which western art and visual experience have been shaped from the Renaissance to the present day through such technologies as perspective machines, camera obscuras, magic lanterns, panoramas, lithography, photography, cinema, video, and digital code. Emphasis will be placed on the cultural, social and aesthetic meanings of technological development and change.

Professor Lela Graybill, PhD
ArtH 4330 | Spring 2015 | Mondays 4:35-7:35 | Art Bldg Rm 158